WESTMINSTER CHURCH.—Pastor Duffield preached a live sermon on a live subject last Sabbath evening. Rev. Dr. George Duffield, we are glad to learn, will occupy the pulpit during the pastor's absence on vacation. I was at first feared that this arrangement could not be made, but it is now definitely settled.

CHRIST (EPISCOPAL) CHURCH.—The vestry of this parish have contracted with Cory & Co., of New York, for one of their large size No. 10 Excelsior furnaces. This announcement will give great satisfaction to the members of the congregation, who suffered much the past winter from cold and furnace gas. THE REV. GEO. H. EDWARDS will take charge of St. Paul's P. E. Church, Dodd Street, Watessing, and will preach both morning and evening. The Sacrament of the Holy Communion will be administered at the morning service, and the Rev. D. T. Edwards expected to take part at the above services. Service in the morning at 10.30, in the evening at 8 P. M. Sunday-school at 3 o'clock P. M.

SILVER LAKE.—The Gospel meeting, at the hall last Sunday evening, was largely attended, about seventy-five being present. The theme talked about for the last three Sabbath evenings has been, THE DEVIL. The Scripture used: Ephesians, iv, 27. "Neither give place to the devil." Division of subject: 1st. There is a devil. 2d. He seeks a place in us. 3d. How we may prevent him. The Sabbath-school is increasing in numbers and interest. The Prayer Meeting this week was well attended.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—The Rev. Mr. Brinkerhoff, of New York, preached last Sabbath morning and evening. MORNING TEXT—Sol. Song, vi, 12. "Or ever I was aware my soul made me like the chariot of Ammadab." A peculiar text, but a very good sermon. Things "new and old" were brought to light. To-morrow the Rev. Mr. Steelman, of Caldwell, will occupy the pulpit. On the following Sabbath the Rev. Henry F. Smith, of Mount Holly, N. J., will preach. Pastor Simons is expected home on the third Sabbath in August. He is spending his vacation with his family at the seaside.

Scene at a Russian Pilgrimage.—Mrs. Scott-Stevenson, in her "On Summer Seas," gives the following account of a Russian pilgrimage to the shrine of St. Nicholas, at Bari, in Italy: "They were all dressed in a kind of uniform, the men in gray, barefooted, with staffs slung over their shoulders, on which were tied bundles of clothes and a pair of boots; the women wore blue serge skirts, gray jackets, and red handkerchiefs around their heads, and like the men, carried bundles, with a water-bottle and tin mug, on their backs. They all slowly 'crawled' on the steps, with bleeding knees and torn, travel-stained garments, muttering prayers and endless litanies, as they toiled upward. On entering the church we saw a shocking sight, so painful that I hesitate to describe it. Four pilgrims were on their knees, with their heads bent then to the ground in the most unnatural attitude, their eyes shut, and the swollen veins standing out like cords from their crimsoned foreheads. A man walked by the side of each hold one of a handkerchief, while the wretched penitent held the other, and was thus guided along the pavement. For a few seconds we did not realize what was taking place, but as they crawled onward we noticed four marks like a dark ribbon behind them, and it dawned on us they were actually licking the floor! And such a floor! Thousands of only half civilized human beings had been in the church since day-break, as the tainted atmosphere but too plainly showed. For over eighty yards those wretched creatures had kept their tongues on the rough pavement, ever every pollution came in their way. We were chained to our seats by horror and disgust, and in spite of ourselves stayed till they at last reached the altar steps and were permitted to rise. The faces haunt me still; the small, cunning eyes turning stealthily toward us, and as hastily turned away; the half-shamefaced, half-fierce look, the coarse, dirt-smear features, the matted heads of hair, and the lolling, accursed tongues, bleeding over their chins. And these were fellow creatures, these benighted wretches, looking like scared wild beasts! What religion can that be which permits such a frightful exhibition, such a loathsome scene of human degradation!"

The Maple-Place Jersey Cattle.

Having learned that Mr. John F. Maxfield's herd of Jersey cattle were looking very fine, THE CITIZEN dispatched a reporter to the spot, who found Mr. Maxfield happily considering the beautiful deer-like animals, and gathered from him much information, all of which he here retails to the listening ears of our readers.

The herd numbers twenty cows and two calves, just imported. Mr. Maxfield had already two bulls and nearly as many more cows and heifers, and this addition brings his stock up to about fifty head of as fine and pure bred animals as one often sees.

By Secretary Folger's special permission, the present herd, accompanied by two attendants, were shipped direct to Mr. Maxfield. They came by the Morris Canal from the dock, arriving here July 12, and are now "in quarantine" in an airy shed until the 2nd of September. One of the two little heifers (No. 497) was born on the Channel voyage, and the secretary of the Jersey Club put its number about its neck with padlock and chain and named it. The other is a young beauty, born on the passage to this country, and unnamed, until the present scribbled it "Citoyenne" in honor of this journal. And this Mr. Maxfield states will be registered as "Alderny" the herd-book. The attendants have now returned, and Mr. Maxfield's own men have the care of the herd.

To those who are ignorant of the facts it may be as well to say that "Alderny" cattle are not imported. What pass as such are "Jerseys" or "Guernseys." These names are from the Channel Islands, between England and France; made famous to modern ears by Victor Hugo's residence, and one of his stories ("The Toilers of the Sea"), and also by the fact that Mrs. Langtry is popularly supposed to have begun her captivating career therabouts as a "Jersey Lily." The imported animals—bulls, cows, and calves—are distinguished by a chain with a padlock fastened about the horns, or, in the case of a calf, about the neck. Each padlock has a number, and the duplicate keys are transmitted to the secretary of the American Jersey Cattle Club in this country, who unlocks the padlock and registers the name and number and pedigree. The numbers are also branded on the right horn of the mature animals. Mr. Maxfield's present importation of cows are all two year olds, are bred to the best bulls, and are from the purest stock. It is the bulls that give the tone to the herd, and in this connection it may be added that Samuel J. Tilden, of Gramperry Park, owns the famous bull "Dido" (No. 351, J. H. B. K.).

The reporter called attention to the fact, that "Dido" was a feminine name, but was told that it was "so nominated in the bond" by some queer mistake. The American secretary of the Jersey Cattle Club will visit and identify all the pretty creatures very soon. Jersey cattle are valuable property—the bull "Sir George" sold for $5,000 last year, and "Farmer's Glory" another bull of celebrity, sold for $3,200. This last bull is the property of Mr. Havenmyer, and was imported two years ago.

Even to an uninitiated person the difference in the faces of the cows is quite marked. The "Sir George" heifers show some black on the head and shoulders. Such is "Countess" (No. 489). The "Dido" breed are quite dark all over, and the "Carlos" have a peculiar thickness of horn. On the other hand the "Cetywayo" heifer "Leonia" (No. 496) is like a pure bred calf of a delicate fawn color—a prize winner on the island—and the little calf (No. 497) was called "Sir George's Leonia" before it left England, and has a decided trace of both parentages. All of these cows are gentle, and their milking qualities are very high. Mr. Maxfield at present gets about a hundred quarts a day, from fourteen of them. The usual yield is from ten to sixteen quarts. It is not uncommon to find a cow where it rises—as in one cow of Mr. Maxfield's called "Hill's Maid of Jersey"—to twenty-eight and thirty quarts a day. This cow, "Hill's Maid," produced eighteen pounds of butter a week, and the two bulls, which the reporter also saw, are "Maxfield's Young Duke" (whose dam is "Hill's Maid") and a smaller animal, a yearling, named "Minnie," "Cabin" heifer, which was quite sick, and was kept up on brandy. She appears a little scrawny, but is fast recovering. The largest owner of Jersey cattle in the United States is probably Mr. Darlington, of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, who refused an offer of $200,000 for his herd some time ago. It will well repay any of our readers to stroll down on Franklin street, and get a view of the Maxfield herd while it is kept together by the requirements of quarantine; for it will stand comparison—except in numbers—with any similar collection.

Also via N. Y. and Greenwood Lake R.R., leave Bloomfield for New York:

Sunday trains, 8.45 A. M., 1.30, 8.00 P. M.
Also to Newark via Newark and Bloomfield Railroad, leaving from early morning till late in the evening, at frequent intervals.

In 1863 the heaviest trains were two passenger, one freight, and one baggage car in; in 1883, four to eight passenger cars, besides smoker and baggage.

These facts prove something. Bloomfield must be a good place, and its growth is not all from the inside, it is fair to assume Bloomfield is an attractive place.

Trichina.
This word, the plural of trichina, has its accent on the second syllable. It is from a Greek word meaning "hair," and is the name of the hair-like worms sometimes found in the human muscles. The word "spirals" is generally attached to it, and refers to the manner in which the parasite lies curled up in his tiny capsule.

When would the world take notice of the males, placed end to end, to make an inch. The disease to which they give rise—at first often mistaken for muscular rheumatism—is called trichiniasis, and trichina worms.

It was not until 1835 that the parasite was found in man. During the next twenty-five years it was proved that there was a connection between the disease and the use of hog and pig meat. In 1867 the parasite was found in the muscles of the latter. Whence the hog derived it is an unsettled question.

As long as the hog lives, the parasite remains dormant in the animal, like the chrysalis of the butterfly. But when the hog's flesh is eaten, the tiny capsules then are dissolved by the digestive juices, and a single meal may introduce many thousands of them—over a million, says one writer—into the stomach. Thus introduced they live from five to six weeks in the intestines, each one producing meanwhile a brood of at least one thousand five hundred. The latter soon migrate towards the muscles, following the course of the blood vessels and nerves, and tracing their god about the tenth day.

Here, in five or six months, they pass into a sort of chrysalis condition, to be freed from it only by the gastric juices of some other being. Similar migrations may follow, wave after wave. More or less, however, are swept out of the intestines, possibly to find their way back to their original home in the swine.

The trichina have been found in every land. They have also been detected in the cat, dog, rabbit, rat, mouse, marmot, the wild hog of Europe, and even in the hippopotamus.—Youth's Companion.
